

CLINICAL TRIAL MODERNIZATION ACT (H.R. 3521)

Paying for Trial Expenses:

- Changes to current restrictions will allow sponsors (those who organize the trials) to provide financial support to participants so they can participate without extra costs. This includes:
 - Medical costs: co-pays
 - Non-medical costs: travel, meals, childcare, etc

Grants to Help People Join Clinical Trials:

- This will establish grant programs to support outreach, education, and recruitment efforts for clinical trials in communities that are usually left out.

Tax Benefits:

- Participants would be able to receive $2,000 before having to report it as income. This means they won't have to pay taxes on that money or adjust eligibility for income-based programs.

Impact on Patients

EASIER PARTICIPATION:

Patients won't have to worry as much about the costs of joining a clinical trial, like travel and meals, because these expenses can be covered.

MORE INCLUSIVE TRIALS:

More people from different backgrounds and communities will be able to join trials, leading to better and more diverse data on how treatments work for everyone.

FINANCIAL RELIEF:

Patients won't have to pay taxes on some of the money they receive for joining trials, making it more affordable to participate.
